

Six Sigma Green Belt Training and Certification by the Best and the First

Schaumburg, IL, April 8, 2011 – Having successfully organized one of the world’s largest Six Sigma Green Belt training classes in March 2010 and repeating another in March 2011, Accelper Consulting is organizing another session for June 27, 28 , and a half day on June 29th, 2011 at the Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) School of Applied Technology in Wheaton, Illinois.

The Six Sigma Green Belt class will be taught by Master Instructors who believe in making Six Sigma training an enjoyable experience rather than trudging in statistics and complex methods. The training focuses on imparting many powerful tools in simple ways for solving real problems with a touch of statistical thinking. “We are really offering an innovation in Six Sigma training where participants can learn more in less time, and are charged to produce more value when they apply these methods. Our approach is using a disruptive approach in Six Sigma, and using Breakthrough Innovation (Brinnovation™) methodologies”, says Praveen Gupta, a pioneer in deploying the Six Sigma methodology.

Participants from Romania, France, Mexico, and Canada besides from United States used the following words to describe their training experience in our Six Sigma Green Belt classes:

Wonderful, Awesome, Amazing, Inspiring, Come alive, Great, Excellent, Best training, Intense, Exciting, Best teachers, Impressive, Fantastic, Great learning experience, Exceeded my expectations, and a Blast!

The session includes Participant’s Guide, a copy of the Stat Free Six Sigma book, meals, and a Six Sigma Green Belt certificate on successful completion of a test and project. The Six Sigma Green Belt training and certification are priced at $495 Per Person and discounted $100 for in-transition people and verifiable currently enrolled students (I.D. and email required).
